

Charles Chaplin - Modern Times (USA,1936) - Chaplin's "little tramp" is one of the iconic figures in the history of movies. Modern Times puts this character into the social unrest of the 1930s and he still emerges with grace, hope, and resilience. This feature - a silent comedy in the sound era - is one of Chaplin's most charming creations. It's also the little tramp's final appearance.

IMDB: https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0027977/?ref=fn_al_tt_1

Streaming on Kanopy

The 1920s were the heyday of silent comedy in Hollywood. The big three of that era are worth exploring: Chaplin's The Gold Rush (1924) Kanopy, Buster Keaton's The General (1927) Kanopy, and Harold Lloyd's Safety Last (1923) HBO Max.