Juried Artist Application and Guidelines

Thank you for your interest in becoming a juried artist member at the Springfield Art Association (SAA). Our juried artist members have the opportunity to regularly show their work at the SAA Collective in the Hoogland Center for Arts, have a featured artist's exhibition at the SAA Collective approximately every three years, participate in juried exhibitions in the M.G. Nelson Family Gallery at a discounted rate when applicable, and participate in art outreach, teaching opportunities, and SAA events as desired.

Our mission is to promote and support the visual arts, provide art education opportunities for the greater Springfield area, and preserve and interpret historic Edwards Place and the collections of the SAA. We believe that art is a vital part of any healthy community. Your interest and application indicates that you wish to participate in Springfield's creative community.

The SAA Collective is the retail gallery space of the SAA. That said, the mission is to show the highest quality, most interesting work being created in the region. Salability is a consideration, but presenting excellent art is our first priority.

Your work will be reviewed by a panel of three jurors, two artists affiliated with the SAA and one professional guest juror from the region. The use of juries is a common practice in the visual arts. By utilizing this system, the work is viewed objectively by a number of artists and not subjected to the personal tastes of any one artist. We use the jury system to ensure that the work displayed in our gallery is of the highest possible quality in terms of concept, style, technical skill, and presentation. The panel will evaluate three pieces of physical work in each media category and up to twelve additional digital portfolio images.

Evaluation Process

The panel will evaluate the work in these four areas:

Level of Achievement (30% of overall score)

The artist has a consistent body of work that reflects a style and approach to the medium as well as skill in the handling of the medium.

Technical Skill (30% of overall score)

The artist's handling of the media exhibits control, skill, and experience. The design or composition of the work shows an understanding and utilization of the principles of design.

Concept (25% of overall score)

The artist works with ideas and effectively reflects an idea, a point of view, or a specific concept.

Presentation (15% of overall score)

The work itself is presented appropriately for exhibition. The support materials reflect a professional standard and meet all the criteria put forth for jury consideration.

Each juror will use a scale of 1 to 5 to evaluate the work in each of the preceding categories.

1=Not Acceptable 2=Shows promise 3=Good 4=Very Good 5=Excellent

The scores you receive are totaled and divided by the number of jurors. An overall average score of 4 or better is required for acceptance to the gallery. Notification will be sent via e-mail or U.S. mail informing you of the jury's decision.

Accepted artists will receive notice along with a New Member package and a contract that must be signed and returned to the SAA before any work may be exhibited. The Gallery Director will arrange a date and time of a new member orientation to provide you with valuable information about SAA, and gallery policies and procedures. Please note that only work in your juried category may be exhibited in the SAA Collective gallery. You may choose to jury in to additional categories at any time for a fee of $20. Juried Artist must contribute at least 10 hours of volunteer to the SAA during the membership year.

Full membership dues are $240 per calendar year. New artist jury fees will be applied to the first year dues. New artists admitted after July 1 pay a half year rate of $120. The Springfield Art Association retains a 35% commission fee on all sales and referrals or 50% of art rental fees. If you wish studio access at the SAA you can increase your membership to $300 per year and gain open studio access to our ceramics, metals, or multi-purpose studios. For a full list of benefits please visit our website.

Artists who are not accepted at this time will receive juror feedback and overall scores. This feedback is provided as a means toward constructive development of the work and possible areas of future study. The staff is not authorized or informed to discuss scores or results with applicants.
